

BLOGGING

Dr. Anthony Collins Prof.

You are a savvy internet user already.

You already use the internet to search for information, download files, and to browse Web sites and blogs.

True?

You also have some experience using a camera or an audio recording device, and you have probably edited some of your work in the past.

Now is the time to find out what you have to say, expressed in a blog.

The first objective is to build a basic understanding of what blogs are and how blogs are used to communicate the thoughts and content of a person on the Web.
